What Is Lead Retrieval?

Lead retrieval is a method for capturing and processing sales leads generated at an event, trade show or conference. Lead retrieval tools connect to a database containing attendee contact details. With just a quick scan of a QR code on an attendee's badge your team is able to qualify, rate and take notes on each lead. Reporting functionality allows you to capture attendee indicative data quickly from your mobile device, allowing your team to engage prospective customers effectively and efficiently.

Lead Retrieval allows organizations to:

- Monitor and track employee engagement with prospective customers
- Export leads for easy import into your sales database
- Prioritize and follow up on leads post-event with action specific points of engagement
- Report and track your Return on Investment
